When to seek urgent help

- Seek emergency help immediately for trouble breathing, chest pain, severe bleeding, seizure, fainting, sudden confusion, bluish lips, sudden weakness on one side, or symptoms that rapidly worsen.
- Do not drive yourself if it is unsafe. Ask another person for help or contact local emergency services.
- In India, the national emergency number is 112.

While waiting for help

- Follow emergency-service instructions. Keep the person safe and do not give food, drink, or medicine if they are unconscious or cannot swallow safely.
- Take prescription lists, allergy information, and relevant medical documents to the health facility when possible.
